Third session planned for Public Engagement Pilot Program

Summary

The third session is set for the Public Engagement Pilot Program and will take place on Saturday, July 28, 2018 in the Oliver Woods Community Centre. Titled "Homelessness: how do we increase understanding and move towards action?," this session will focus on problem solving through working together. Facilitated by Dyan Dunsmoor-Farley, the session will begin with a panel of speakers from the community who will bring their perspective on homelessness. Following that, attendees, members from Council and members of the Community Engagement Task Force will collaborate towards solving the problem, "How do we increase understanding and move towards action?".

Space is limited so residents planning to attend are asked to RSVP by Monday, July 23, 2018 to PublicEngagement@nanaimo.ca or 250-755-4460 ext. 4265. To find resources and materials to prepare for this session, please see the link in the online version of this news release or visit the Public Engagement Pilot Program page at www.nanaimo.ca/goto/engagement.

- Part of this session will be livecast on the City's Facebook page (facebook.com/CityofNanaimo) so residents can attend online.

Quotes

"The Community Engagement Task Force is looking forward to bringing together front line service providers, those with lived experience, business owners and community members to think about the complex and challenging issue of homelessness in Nanaimo. Unlike the previous two engagement sessions, this event has been designed to move us from dialogue towards action, encouraging participants to think about our individual as well as our collective reactions and responses to this crisis."

Quick Facts

- In June 2018, the public was asked what topic they would like to explore during this engagement session and homelessness was the most submitted.
- The Community Engagement Task Force is a result of a Council motion made to set up an "ad-hoc committee" to develop a pilot program consisting of open-topic engagement sessions held in an informal
