Shed Your Threads

Recreation equipment share, swap & trade event

Summary

The City of Nanaimo Department of Parks, Recreation and Culture has partnered with Vancouver Island University, Nanaimo Ladysmith Public Schools and Island Health for the "Shed Your Threads" campaign. Aiming to reduce leisure barriers through access to appropriate gear, Shred Your Threads will be held on Friday, July 9 from 12-4 pm in the Bowen Park Auditorium.

Organizers of this event are hoping to level the playing field for youth by sharing, swapping and trading athletic clothes, shoes, jackets, recreation and sporting equipment. The invitation is for community members to drop off their used but in still good condition recreation equipment allowing children and youth to participate in the upcoming fall sports season.

Not only does this foster youth sports participation, it also reduces environmental impact by reusing, recycling and reducing equipment in the landfill or having it collect dust in the garage.

Shed Your Threads proposes a change from a consumer model of "take, make and dispose" to a more collaborative and sustainable model in which sharing, swapping and repairing can give used items a new purpose.

Strategic Link: Links to the Livability and Environmental Responsibility themes, by supporting recreation as an integral part of everyday life and taking a leadership role in adapting the way we live, work, recreate and move.

Key Points
