City of Nanaimo announces call for Youth Poet Laureate

The City of Nanaimo seeks new Youth Poet Laureate

Summary

The City of Nanaimo is seeking applications for the position of Youth Poet Laureate.

Nanaimo's next Youth Poet Laureate will be appointed by City Council for a two-year-term, and will serve as literary ambassador for the City. The Youth Poet Laureate is an advocate for poetry, language, and the arts, and is expected to create opportunities for the community to appreciate strong youth voice, reach a variety of audiences, encouraging peer to peer education and inspiration, and pave the way for future youth to engage on a civic level using their artistic voice.

Mentored by the Poet Laureate, the Youth Poet Laureate will present original work to City Council and the community through a variety of civic events. They will also be responsible for organizing community-based youth poetry projects, including collaboration with local organizations such as the Nanaimo Harbourfront Library and Literacy Central Vancouver Island.

Past Youth Poet Laureates include Kailey Defehr who served from 2017 to 2018, and Valina Zanetti who served from 2019 to 2021. Both Youth Poets made meaningful and memorable contributions during their terms, bringing unique perspectives and voice to the role.

The successful applicant is expected to have a talent for inspiring the community, have clear and innovative ideas regarding the vision for the position of Youth Poet Laureate, be comfortable presenting and performing in public settings, and have a gift for capturing their audiences through live readings. They will have a track record of engagement with the literary community and will bring their own artistic projects, experiences and networks to this dynamic civic role.

Applicants are invited to review the complete guidelines including eligibility requirements and details on how to apply on the City's website at www.nanaimo.ca/goto/youth-poet.

The deadline to submit applications is 11:59 p.m. on Oct. 30.
