Recognizing 150 years of incorporation

Corporate logo and street banners to be displayed throughout Nanaimo

Summary

On December 24, 1874, Nanaimo officially became the sixth municipality to be incorporated in British Columbia. Marking the milestone will be a number of activities and initiatives, beginning with the release of the corporate logo and street banners. 150 years of incorporation provides a chance to highlight the City of Nanaimo's successes while recognizing its citizens and community partners who have contributed to Nanaimo's vibrancy over the past century and a half.

The logo and banner were both designed by local artist Amy Pye. The designs were inspired by the convergence of land and sea, and the unique blend of urban and rural life that makes our landscape truly exceptional. Pye's design intends to grab attention and inspire thoughtful reflection about our city throughout the year.

The street banners will be installed along Nanaimo's streets and in our parks, and the corporate logo will be integrated into the City's everyday business for the year ahead.

Strategic Link: Recognizing 150 years as a corporation by practicing good governance and corporate excellence and also recognizing past and present staff and former leaders.
